All taste and no waste

A staff canteen turned greener-than-thou gourmet restaurant, the Acorn House in King's Cross is our newcomer of the year. Jay Rayner tells the story of local-community regeneration, rooftop composting, and high-end gastronomy that manages, somehow, to produce only half a bag of rubbish a day

Filtered tap water

Produces less carbon emissions as there is no need for delivery trucks to drop off bottled water. Filtered by a four stage process. If you ask for it, you can have Belu bottled mineral water which is sold in compostable plastic bottles.

Oak table

Made with oak sustainably sourced in Norway. The light energy efficient built on electricity from renewable source. Walls are painted with low chemical paints.
